Microsoft Action Pack Development and Design Software Contents

Find the software licenses available to you as a Microsoft Action Pack Development and Design subscriber. These software licenses are provided for use at your company's primary business location only and must be used only for internal business purposes, conducting demonstrations with your customers, training your employees, and application development and testing. These licenses may not be used for direct revenue-generating activities (such as website or e-mail hosting, or custom solution development for monetary compensation). They also cannot be resold or used for personal reasons. Licenses are provided for the latest released versions of Microsoft software.

If you chose to receive physical media, these software license benefits are included in your Action Pack Development and Design shipment (options vary by location). You can also choose to download your software benefits from the Partner Digital Distribution Portal or MSDN Subscriber Downloads site, depending on the product usage rights. The products and languages that are available for download or that are shipped in the appropriate kits are based on software availability.

Some products require keys. Refer to the following table to learn where to download each product and where to retrieve the appropriate keys (if necessary), and also get important information related to select products.

Microsoft continually updates the Action Pack Development and Design software benefits to include new products and current versions of software already available to subscribers. When benefits are updated, you can use the new benefits as soon as they are added to the following table. When earlier software versions are removed, you have twelve months from the effective date to upgrade your software to the newer version.
